SHARE
We need your voice to help educate others about extreme poverty. We want people to truly understand the complications of daily living in extreme poverty, grasp the alarming statistics of life or death outcomes, hear the stories and learn the names of people that move us to action.

WE CAN DO MORE TOGETHER

Our request is that you think about joining us to help more children come out of poverty and break the cycle. Here are some ways you can be a difference maker:

We could have been born anywhere.

Some children have been born into a hard geography, vulnerable to disease, crime, and hopelessness. Some go without food for days, live in a 10 ft x 10 ft sheetmetal or wood shack with no electricity, and no clean fresh running water. It’s not just that they grow up to live on less than $2 a day, but they are searching for dignity, equality, value, love, and a voice to make a change.

Most of us want to do something to help, but we’re frozen by the scale and complexity of extreme poverty. How can we possibly make a difference?

When I Grow Up represents a group of people from varied backgrounds and ethnicities who see our neighbor as not just across the street, but across the ocean. We work to give people an opportunity to improve the quality of life for children and to change the future of children and the children’s communities.

What Is Our Goal?

When I Grow Up and our global partners are committed to maintaining good communication, transparency, and accountability.

When I Grow Up currently supports three global partners that serve over 1,200 children in Guatemala, Haiti, and Kenya, all at various levels of program development.

In reality, what does this look like?

When I Grow Up empowers children in extreme poverty to attend school, be fed, be safe, and be loved.
